月はとても長い間隠されていました。スターは顔を見せることを拒否した。占い師も荷物を積んで村を去った。あなたは荒涼とした通りで激しく踊るペストを避けるためにすべてを内部に持ってきました。この解放の日、すべての人類はこの旧市街を取り戻すために集まりました。

“The moon was hidden for a very long time. The star refused to show her face. The fortune teller also packed up and left the village.

You've brought everything inside to avoid the plague that dances wildly in the desolate streets.

On this Liberation Day, all mankind has come together to reclaim this old city.”

There were no massive rallies,

And, so was the mood and while I do believe that those who lied, cheated and robbed our children of their proper futures; that they should be put on trial and be made to pay for their crimes against humanity.

Still, I see the need to move on as there is a world and millions of shattered lives that need to be rebuilt. There is a need to calm hearts and nurture young souls back onto the middle path of life which can not be addressed if we elect to live in the graveyards of our past by seeking vengeance of the criminals even though they still walk amongst us with no fear or remorse.

I didn't want to add to her troubled mind but, after about an hour into her tale...I think,

I had figured out why they would turn around (traveling light years) to return her back to mining colony Earth 2.

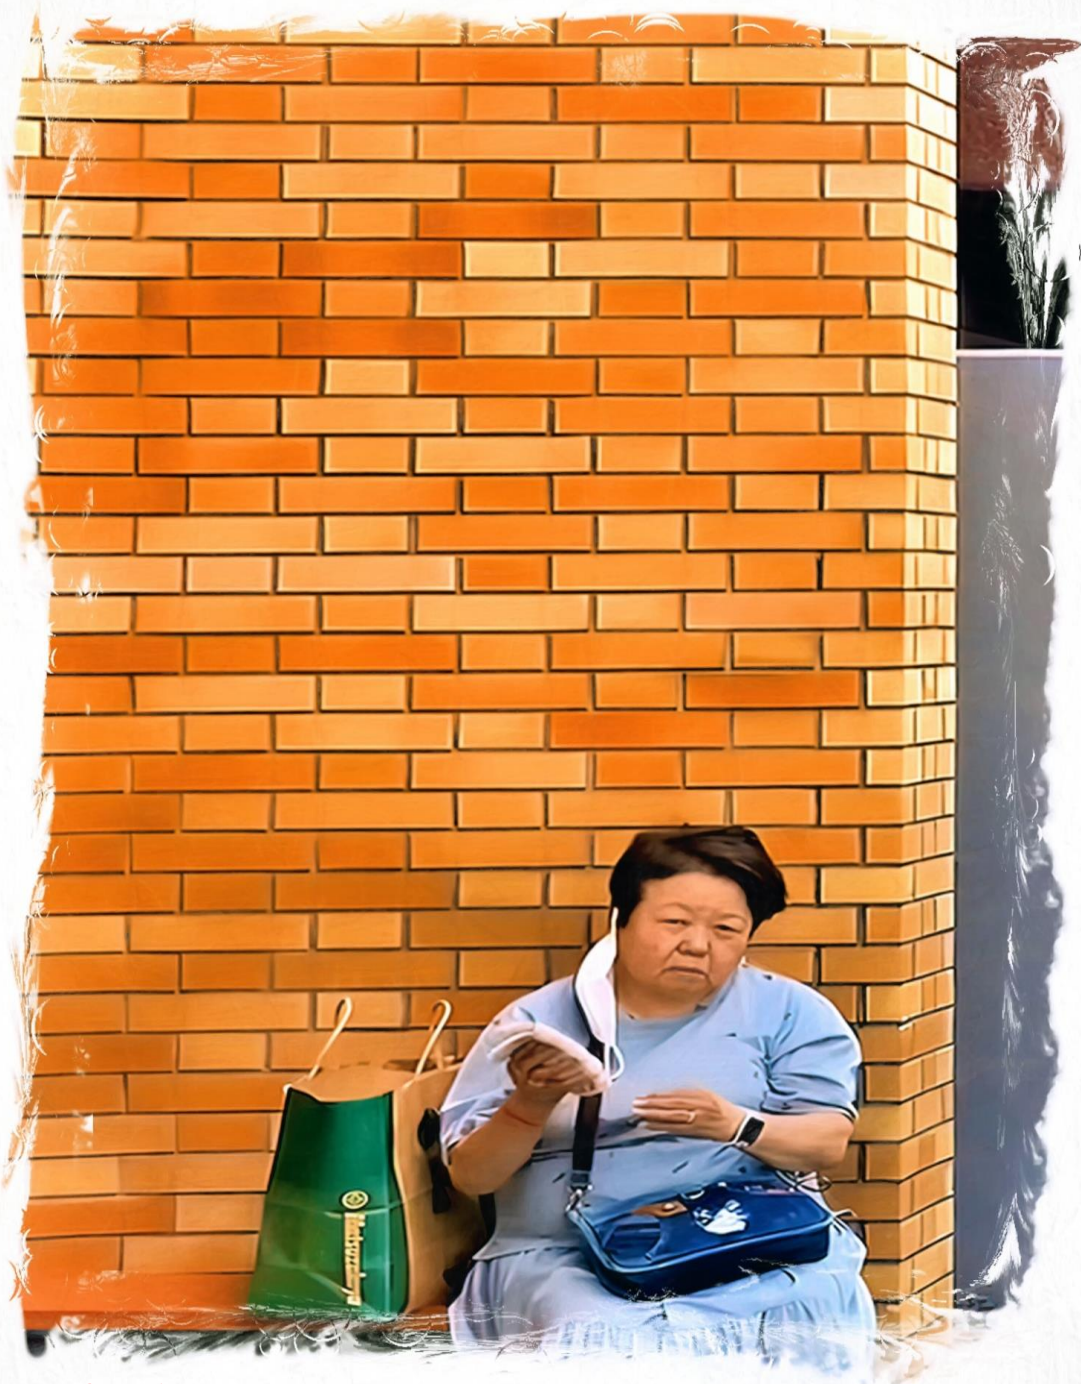

Lucky for me, there was an older gentleman who saw her as an easy target for a fun night and
